

Animal Welfare Begins with You

- The University of Georgia is committed to the humane care of the animals used in its research and instructional activities.
- If you have a question or concern about animal welfare, we want to hear about it. We urge you to report concerns to your supervisor or to the University's Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee (IACUC) as listed below.
- It is your obligation to report any concerns about animal welfare.
- Please see University of Georgia's Policy on the Care and Use of Animals and the Policy on Reporting Deficiencies in Animal Care.

- Anonymous concerns can also be reported via the UGA Ethics and Compliance Reporting Hotline online at <https://uga.alertline.com> or by phone at 1-877-516-3467.

The identity of persons reporting concerns is held strictly confidential.

Persons reporting animal welfare concerns are protected from reprisal by applicable whistleblower protection policies.
